

America's Largest RV Show Rolls into the Sweetest Place on Earth

Camp Hill, PA--- With so many travelers in the market for an affordable, hassle-free getaway, recreation vehicles (RVs) are an attractive option. The best place to learn more about these "homes on wheels" is at the Pennsylvania RV & Camping Show, America's Largest RV Show, held September 15 – 19, 2010 at the *Giant Center*SM in Hershey, PA.

More than 900 of the latest RVs are anticipated to be on display this year with units ranging from the smallest folding campers to the largest motorhomes. There are various sizes and styles for every taste and budget creating the perfect place to shop and compare all the major manufacturers. In addition to the many RVs, the show also hosts a wide variety of suppliers, vendors, and the largest display of recreational park trailers found anywhere.

A diverse range of educational seminars will be held throughout the week, including Gary Bunzer's tips on troubleshooting plumbing systems; John Holod's RV Adventure Videos; and Bob Marx's insight on choosing an RV and traveling full time in your RV. RVing has been a part of America's history for 100 years and continues to be one of the most popular and inexpensive ways to vacation. In celebration of the RV Centennial, America's Largest RV Show will host an RV History Exhibit complete with antique RVs and historic campsite display.

And what better place to celebrate than the Sweetest Place on Earth...Hershey, PA? With Chocolate World and Hersheypark next door, it makes the perfect family destination.
