The First National Get Outdoors Day a Success

Camp Hill - The first National Get Outdoors Day (NGOD) held on June 14th was a great success with thousands of American families and youth participating in NGOD activities across the country. The day emphasized reaching out to new and first time visitors to public lands. By offering diverse activities and opportunities, this national effort broadened appreciation for and interest in the great outdoors. National Get Outdoors Day, which promotes the fun and value of time outdoors, is a signature event of "Great Outdoors Month," the designation given annually to June by the White House and governors across the United States.

Hundreds of partners made the NGOD activities possible through support and sponsorship. The Pennsylvania Recreation Vehicle and Camping Association (PRVCA) is a proud Charter Champion for the event. "National Get Outdoors Day was the perfect way to introduce families to all that nature has to offer," Rebecca Lenington, Executive Vice President of PRVCA states. "We at PRVCA know the importance of families getting outside to enjoy the outdoors and we couldn't think of a better event to aid in this goal."

The event was held across the country at 54 official sites in 34 states, plus Puerto Rico, with many non-official sites as well. National Get Outdoors Day introduced thousands of families to the great outdoors in the hopes to combat the sedentary lifestyles that are affecting the mental, physical and spiritual well-being of today's youth.
